

IPC ACTIVITIES LED AT REGIONAL AND COUNTRY LEVEL IN 2010

IPC was initially developed in Somalia then rolled out in East and Central Africa starting 2007-2008. It is now implemented in around 25 countries on all continents with different stages of implementation (see IPC World map). Activities typically led at regional and country level can be defined as per the categories below:

Awareness Raising	Open day approach being used at both regional and national levels to increase awareness and understanding of IPC with different stakeholders.
Analysis Workshop	Realize a first map or update the previous IPC map together with the analysis templates and summary statements based on the meta-data analysis. Analysis workshops are ultimately done at national level, but exercises can be led at sub-national levels.
Lesson Learning Workshop	Review of experiences from IPC activities in order to identify best practices. Lesson learning workshops are usually done twice a year at national level (after each seasonal analysis) and once a year at regional level to share national experiences.
Introductory Mission	External assistance mission for the introduction of IPC which covers generally a set of activities ranging from general information, to awareness-raising with more specialized audiences, to institutional support or technical support to trainings or analysis exercises.
Review and Consultation	Meeting between members from the Global Support Unit and IPC practitioners to review IPC implementation in the regions and input into the global technical development of the IPC. It focuses on past experience, progress and lessons learnt.
Regional Technical Workshop	Technical workshops are led at regional level to review the trans-border issues and consolidate national analyses into a regional map.
Technical Training	Course aiming at building local capacity to undertake IPC activities. The trainings are carried out either as Training of Trainers (TOTs) or training directly with the IPC practitioners, and length can vary from one day to one week.
